THREE MARIAS GOLF CLUB

Landscapes that extend over more than 550 hectares where the maximum advances in urbanization, security and equipment converge, offering its inhabitants the possibility of living in an ecological development of wide color and natural wealth.

Designed by Jack Nicklaus, the best golfer and designer of golf courses in the world, the 27-hole course invites you to play in an exceptional location, being the first course of its category that is not located on the beach.

Thanks to the original design of the Tres Marías Golf Course, it has earned it the name of “the first golf stadium in the world” since it is possible to see several holes at the same time from different points due to their height contrasts.

It has an exclusive sports and recreational club that includes sports areas, landscaped green areas, bicycle paths, an equestrian club and country activities.
